BLOOD TESTING

EDMONTON (CP) — Blood tests should be mandatory for drivers involved in serious property damage or injury in automobile accidents, says the spokesman for a group against impaired drivers.

Gladys Armstrong, 40, president of People Against Impaired Drivers, said blood tests are necessary because the court system appears to be having difficulty prosecuting people who drink and drive.

For the Island, For the times.

Jim Lee's leadership is working to preserve and protect the family farms and rural communities — the heart of the Island.

By seeking to make every acre of land more productive, by bringing new management and marketing methods to small scale agriculture, the Lee Government has continued the process of rural revitalization.

The cole crop industry is an example. It was left to die by the previous administration. But the P.C. Government recognized that farmers could revive it. The P.C. Government put dollars into the processing plant. They provided new forms of crop insurance. They assisted with marketing and technical information about production. This year 350 acres of cole crops are planted. This will mean jobs for 70 people.

Jim Lee and the P.C. Team are going to continue the rural revitalization already underway. The cole crop industry indicates what can be done when a group of farmers get together with a government that believes in them.

"Our strength as a Province is in our people, our communities and our land. Nothing is more important to the future of our Island than the continuing revitalization of small scale farms and communities. We have taken important steps in the right direction, and we must continue."

Attacks Welcome Liberal Ghiz Says

By The Canadian Press

SOURIS — When it comes to election campaigns the best defence is a good offence, says P.E.I. Liberal Leader Joe Ghiz, who is developing a final rush for the goal line in Monday's general election.

Ghiz, whose policies Progressive Conservative Premier James Lee described as a $30-million giveaway, is heading into the home stretch of his first campaign as a candidate. He admitted in an interview Wednesday it has not been an easy campaign, but said the advantage now was his.

"There's no question about it — our party's platform has become the biggest issue in the campaign," he said. "That is immensely gratifying for me, because it means I am now in control of the campaign."

Standing in front of an aging wooden hospital on the eroding sandstone cliffs overlooking Colville Bay, Ghiz bristled at the suggestion his campaign promises will be too expensive for the island's tiny economy.

The Liberal platform would have mortgages financed at the same rate as the province is able to borrow at, a $300 grant to all homeowners, subsidized drug care for senior citizens, an immediate reduction in power rates for those using fewer than 500 kilowatt hours a month and the takeover of the privately owned electrical utility on the island.

Lee has said the Liberal platform would cost more than $30 million, while Ghiz insists the whole package would cost no more than $8 million, or two per cent of the provincial budget.

The Liberal leader, who bears a vague physical resemblance to Brian Peckford and shares the Newfoundland premier's fiery oratorical skills, called Lee's charges ridiculous and foolish.

"The Liberal party is going to be responsible to the people of P.E.I.," Ghiz said.

"As a matter of fact, I'm absolutely flattered that Mr. Lee has tried to lambaste me and has tried this mudslinging. I hope he says something worse about me today."

Lee's attack on the Liberal platform, mild by some political standards, reflects the character of competition between the two men.

Healthy farms are the backbone of the Island economy. Jim Lee's Government will continue to support all our farms by diversifying our industry. The Lee Government will also continue to develop new management and marketing methods and to assist farms financially.

The Progressive Conservative Party has nominated one of the finest slates of candidates in the history of this Province. These men and women are committed to the future of this Province and our Island way of life.

Today there are great challenges facing Islanders. The major breakthrough in energy negotiations with the Provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick will ease the burden of high electric costs for all Islanders and provide new opportunities for manufacturing and processing throughout the Province.

The Vet College will provide 950 jobs over three years of construction and 250 permanent jobs. The College will be an industry in itself with unique benefits to the Island.

I am confident in our ability to provide additional opportunities for Island agriculture and forestry. The fishery must be protected and developed to ensure the maximum benefit for Islanders.

Our industrial strategy will create new jobs based on the resources of the land and the sea. At the same time we will create jobs based on the skills and ingenuity of Islanders to make the Island a "Haven of Excellence."

I look to the future with confidence, working with these men and women of the P.C. Team to create a brighter future for ourselves and our children and to protect our Island way of life.
